

Ready. To Regulate Your Internet.

The big government, pro-regulation crowd wants the government to regulate the Internet.

Your Internet.

They call it “network neutrality.”

But make no mistake: “network neutrality” is the first step toward government regulation of the Internet.

First regulation. Then taxation.

They’re ready for regulation. Are you?

We oppose network neutrality and any other form of regulation or taxation of the Internet.

And we’re ready... to fight to keep the Internet free.

The Internet Freedom Coalition Fights Government Regulation of the Internet

America’s technological preeminence is threatened by those who want the government to move in and regulate what entrepreneurs, investors, and visionaries have created.

The Internet Freedom Coalition — a coalition of 27 free-market, limited government, and faith-based grassroots organizations, individuals and policy organizations with over 3 million members — firmly share the belief that the Internet should not be taxed, regulated, or subject to United Nations control.
